„Stirb Langsam“ - Back to the Roots

Zum Kinostart von „Stirb Langsam 4.0“ präsentiert TCFHE die komplette Vorgeschichte der Bruce Willis-Kultreihe auf DVD

Erstmals in einer Box: Die stärkste Action-Trilogie aller Zeiten mit jeder Menge brandaktuellem Bonusmaterial

Frankfurt, 11. Mai 2007 – Dieser Mann geht dahin, wo es richtig weh tut – und ein gutes Stück weiter. In der Rolle des New Yorker Cops John McClane verkörperte Bruce Willis 1988 einen Actionhelden der neuen, realistischen Art: Unbeirrbar aber nicht unverwundbar nimmt er es mit einer Terrorbande auf und kriegt dabei selbst das volle Paket an Schrammen und Blessuren ab. Im Kino startet am 27. Juni „Stirb Langsam 4.0“, die neueste Folge einer Filmreihe, die für Action-Fans seit je her Kult ist. Wer ihre Anfänge bisher verpasst hat oder seine DVD-Sammlung komplettieren will, kann das jetzt nachholen: Twentieth Century Fox Home Entertainment (TCFHE) bringt alle drei bereits erschienenen „Stirb Langsam“-Filme erstmals zusammen in einer Box! Die beiden ersten Teile gibt es außerdem in weiteren, attraktiven DVD-Versionen.

Für Cineasten besonders reizvoll: Ab 18. Juni sind erstmals alle drei Teile der „Stirb-Langsam“-Trilogie exklusiv in einer schicken Box im neuen coolen „Stirb Langsam 4.0“-Look erhältlich. Obendrein ist eine brandneue Bonus-DVD mit dabei, die exklusives, bisher unveröffentlichtes Material zu allen „Stirb Langsam“-Teilen enthält: Das 45-minütige Feature „Der falsche Kerl, am falschen Ort, zur falschen Zeit“ bietet einen detaillierten Blick auf die kultigste Action-Serie aller Zeiten. Damit nicht genug gibt es ein 15-minütiges Special zu den „neuen Abenteuern von John McClane“ mit Szenen aus den Teilen 1-3 inklusive einer Vorschau auf „Stirb Langsam 4.0“. Drei Trailer des neuesten Teils sind ebenfalls enthalten. Ein echter Leckerbissen für alte und neue Bruce Willis-Fans! – Für alle, die bereits einzelne Titel der Trilogie besitzen, bietet Twentieth Century Fox Home Entertainment die Filme „Stirb Langsam“ und „Stirb Langsam 2“ gleich in zwei Varianten: einmal als Single- und einmal als Special Edition im attraktiven Steelbook mit exklusivem Bonusmaterial. Beide Single-Versionen sind darüber hinaus auch zusammen in einer Box erhältlich.

Back to the Roots - zurück zu den Anfängen - heißt es dabei nicht nur für „Stirb Langsam“-Fans, sondern für Freunde von Bruce Willis-Filmen insgesamt. Denn mit „Stirb Langsam“ erlebte er unter der Regie von John McTiernan seinen großen Durchbruch als Action-Star in Hollywood. In „Stirb Langsam“ gerät er als einfacher Cop unfreiwillig in die Rolle des Retters und Rächers: Eine Bande von Terroristen hat einen ganzen Wolkenkratzer in ihre Gewalt gebracht, um eine gigantische Geldsumme zu erbeuten. Das nimmt der Polizist John McClane persönlich, denn unter den Geiseln befindet sich seine Frau Holly. Vor deren Befreiung haben die Drehbuchautoren jede Menge Schweiß, Glasscherben und explosive Action gesetzt. Belohnt wurde der ebenso spannende wie selbstironische Kampf McClanes mit vier Oscar-Nominierungen.

Dass weder der Erfolg des Films noch der von Bruce Willis Zufallstreffer waren, zeigte sich 1990 mit der Fortsetzung „Stirb Langsam 2“, bei der Renny Harlin Regie führte. Wie schon beim ersten Mal, heißt John McClane einfach nur auf ein ruhiges Weihnachtsfest mit seiner Frau. Doch diesmal stört ein Trupp schurkischer Söldner den Familienfrieden: Er besetzt einen Flughafen und droht damit, Passagiermaschinen zum Absturz zu bringen. Pech für die Finsterlinge, dass Holly unter den bedrohten Fluggästen ist, denn das ruft natürlich den coolsten Cop in der Geschichte des Actionfilms auf den Plan.

Auch in „Stirb Langsam: Jetzt erst recht“ erweist sich John McClane wieder einmal als der richtige „falsche Kerl, am falschen Ort, zur falschen Zeit“. Für den dritten, 1994 gedrehten Teil der Reihe, kehrte nicht nur John McTiernan auf den Regiestuhl, sondern auch der Terror ins Leben des Cops zurück. Der Bruder des Oberschurken aus Teil 1 dreht eine Bombe in die Luft zu sprengen und liefert sich mit John McClane eine explosive Hetzjagd zu Lande, zu Wasser und in der Luft.

Wer die Vorgeschichte von „Stirb Langsam 4.0“ samt aller Running Gags der Filmreihe kennt, wird den neuen Kinofilm erst richtig genießen können.

Anastasia

Based on the legend of the real-life daughter of the last Russian czar, ANASTASIA combines imaginative animation and lively songs to tell the story of a princess who escapes a horrible execution and mysteriously reappears after being thought dead. When a team of swindlers, Dimitri (John Cusack) and Vladimir (Kelsey Grammer), recruit Anya (Meg Ryan), a spunky amnesiac orphan, in their plot to defraud the Dowager Empress (Angela Lansbury) with a faux Romanov heir, little do they know their carefully coached fake is the real thing. But the resurgence of the long-lost Anastasia also attracts the attention of the scary Rasputin (Christopher Lloyd), who, with his hilarious sidekick, Bartok the bat (Hank Azaria), schemes to do in the last Romanov. Though much lighter (thankfully for children) than the 1956 Anatole Litvak-directed ANASTASIA adapted from Marcelle Maurette's play, this movie is still packed with thrills, chills, and romance. The first animated feature from 20th Century Fox, the film is directed by longtime collaborators Don Bluth and Gary Goldman.

Garfield the Movie

Breckin Meyer, Jennifer Love Hewitt, Liz Wilson, Stephen Tobolowsky - Dir. Peter Hewitt

The long-running, popular comic strip about the fat and lazy cat named Garfield comes to life with this live-action Hollywood comedy. Based on characters created by Jim Davis, the film tells the story of this supremely spoiled pet, who wants the affection of everyone around him, only he wants it on his own terms. Trouble arises one day when, under the influence of the beautiful veterinarian Liz (Jennifer Love Hewitt), Garfield's owner Jon (Breckin Meyer) stuns him by bringing home a cuddly dog, Odie. Jealous at the attention Odie is receiving, Garfield locks Odie out of the house. Odie runs away and when he's kidnapped by the evil television personality Happy

Ice Age

A star-studded cast provides the voices for the prehistoric creatures in this computer-animated feature set 20,000 years ago as the Ice Age approaches. Seemingly anti-social Manny, a woolly mammoth (voiced by Ray Romano), acts as if he just wants to be left alone. When he meets Sid (voiced by John Leguizamo), a sloth, the two become unlikely traveling companions. The plot thickens when the duo finds a human infant and decides to try to return the child to its „herd.“ Manny slowly but surely reveals his heart of gold, while Sid continues to provide comic relief. Diego (voiced by Denis Leary), a saber-tooth tiger with ulterior motives, soon joins them in their search for the humans. Ultimately, this group of misfits becomes its own herd, learning about friendship and loyalty as they brave snow, ice, freezing temperatures, predators, hail, and even boiling lava pits. All the while, a saber-tooth squirrel, Scat, provides comic relief as he valiantly struggles with an acorn. Ikki Touden - Complete Box Set

Partly a riff on Japanese folklore, partly a fighting anime, and partly a titillating comedy about feuding schoolgirls, IKKI TOUSEN combines sex and violence in equal measure. Busty bimbo Hakufu Sonsaku exhibits a fighting prowess rarely seen before, which leads some to believe she is the reincarnation of a legendary warrior. She arrives at one of the high schools in the Kanto district, which are engaged in a series of battles for supremacy between the students. When Hakufu becomes part of these struggles, she threatens to alter the balance of power forever, which, of course, the other school cannot allow. This set contains all 13 episodes of the action-

Robots

The pixel-happy production company Blue Sky follows its successful feature ICE AGE with more animated antics in ROBOTS. Rodney Copperbottom (voiced by Ewan McGregor) is a talented inventor who hopes to make his fortune by moving to Robot City and working among the nuts and bolts of the robotics industry. Rodney fantasizes about building robots for his boyhood hero and master inventor Big Weld (Mel Brooks), but when he meets him, Rodney's dream threatens to turn rusty. Big Weld reveals that his company is now being run by the evil Phineas T. Ratchet (Greg Kinnear), a merciless moneymaker who wants to rid the world of the antiquated robots that clutter up the streets of Robot City. This leaves Rodney's aspirations needing a major oil change, and with little chance of finding work, he feels about as useful as a broken spare part. So he takes to the streets, where he finds some unlikely salvation in a group of robots lead by Fender (Robin Williams). Fender urges Rodney to help save them from the scrap heap, while Ratchet and his company create threatening new policies on robot reconstruction. The ensuing ac

Secret of NIMH

Don Bluth's THE SECRET OF NIMH is an exquisitely drawn, colorfully animated feature about Mrs. Brisby, a brave mother field mouse who struggles to save her family's home from a farmer's plow. She soon discovers she needs the help of the strange, intelligent rats who live beneath the nearby rosebush in an intricate city. But when the timid but determined Mrs. Brisby discovers the astounding wonders of NIMH, it could change her life forever. From the Hitchcockian flashback sequence revealing the rats' secret to the moral questions raised about animal testing, this film is a beautiful example of how animation can expertly tell a gripping story while still remaining appropriate and entertaining for children. Widely considered to be Bluth's masterpiece, THE SECRET OF NIMH features a strong cast of vocal talent, including Derek Jacobi, John Carradine, Dom DeLuise, Elizabeth Hartman, Wil Wheaton, and Shannen Doherty.

Stellaluna

STELLALUNA tells the story of an innocent, good-natured fruit bat who finds herself out on her own. A group of birds takes her in, but Stellaluna soon discovers just how different she is from these chirping birds who like to sleep at night. Eventually, though, Stellaluna has an awakening that makes her reevaluate her position and embrace the special qualities that are specific to her. STELLALUNA is an engaging animated adventure tale that teaches children valuable lessons about being open minded and sensitive.

Thumbelina

With its pretty songs and good characters, THUMBELINA will delight children. The film—which uses more computer graphics than previous Don Bluth films—tells the fable of the Hans Christian Andersen heroine Thumbelina (Jodi Benson), a tiny girl born to a childless woman from a flower. Longing to find someone her size, she falls in love with a fairy prince, Cornelius (Gary Imhoff), only to be kidnapped by a band of show business toads and their singing Ma (Charo). That's just the beginning of Thumbelina's adventures and her quest to be reunited with her prince—and it's an adventure filled with danger and excitement.

Winnie The Pooh: The Many Adventures Of Winnie the Pooh

The lovable lump of a bear is back in this collection of classic animated tales. Tigger and Pooh begin a beautiful friendship in the Oscar-winning short WINNIE THE POOH AND THE BLUSTERY DAY. Pooh's love for honey gets him into a tight spot in Rabbit's home much to the sensible bunny's surprise, and a windy day is cause for wonder and worry. Based on the books by A.A. Milne, these animated films feature children's favorite residents of the Hundred Acre Wood: Pooh, Rabbit, Piglet, Gopher, Kanga, Roo, Eeyore, and Owl. Though decades have passed since these films' creation, friendship and Winnie the Pooh have never gone out of style. A honey pot full of extras includes a Carly Simon performance of „The Winnie The Pooh Theme Song,“ „The Wonderful Thing About Tiggers“ sing along, and Eeyore takes center stage in the short film „A Day For Eeyore.“

Astronaut Farmer

Bruce Willis, Billy Bob Thornton, Virginia Madsen, Bruce Dern, Richard Edson, Tim Blake Nelson, Max Thierot, Jon Gries, Mark Polish, Sal Lopez, J.K. Simmons - Dir. Michael Polish
If twin filmmakers Mark and Michael Polish take cues from David Lynch, then THE ASTRONAUT FARMER is their version of THE STRAIGHT STORY. Though the brothers usually deal in the surreal (NORTHFORK) and the strange (TWIN FALLS, IDAHO), this drama about a would-be astronaut is almost pedestrian by comparison. But thanks to strong performances and a quirky story, this film manages to be both interesting and inspirational. Billy Bob Thornton (BAD SANTA) plays Charles Farmer, a man who is unwilling to let his lack of NASA credentials keep him from space. Instead, he builds a rocket in his Texas barn and prepares to launch it. When his attempts to purchase large amounts of fuel draw the eye of the government, he must contend with the law, the press, and mounting bills.

Bear with Me

Michael Ontkean, Helen Shaver, Alan Thicke, Gordon Tootoosis
Little Emily and her family adopt a bear cub and name it Masha. They raise Masha, and release her into the woods. After about three years, 11 year old Emily gets lost deep in the forest all alone. It's dark out there and she stumbles and gets knocked unconscious. Emily wakes up and to her surprise, Masha is there cuddling her and keeping her warm and safe. Now, Emily must find her way home with the security and help of Masha. Unfortunately it isn't as easy as it seems—there are all sorts of wild animals in the forest. Cougars, wolves, other bears, and even bear-hunters are all over. The two keep each other safe throughout their dangerous adventure in order to make sure Emily gets home safe and sound. A heartwarming tale of adventure and friendship enjoyable for the whole family.

Black Snake Moan

Samuel L. Jackson, Christina Ricci, Justin Timberlake, John Cothran, S. Epatha Merkerson, David Banner - Dir. Craig Brewer
Director Craig Brewer follows up his unexpectedly well-received pimp drama, HUSTLE AND FLOW, with this stylish tale of the unlikely connections that are forged when a lost soul attempts to cure a young nymphomaniac of her wicked ways. Set deep down south in a small Tennessee town, the film is titled after and largely driven by the force of blues music. Pulsating with color and bold cinematography, the story forms a visual counterpart to a blues ballad. When divorced ex-musician Lazarus (Samuel L. Jackson) finds Rae (Christina Ricci) badly beaten by the side of the road, he brings her to his house and chains her to his radiator. Rae has been a wreck since her boyfriend (Justin Timberlake) went off to war, and has spent her time getting into fights and being taken advantage of by just about every man in town. Rae appears to be afflicted with a physical need for sex that no one can cure. As Lazarus watches Rae twitching with pain on his couch, he sees that the young woman's only chance at redemption is in his hands.

Bridge to Terabithia (Blu-ray)

Josh Hutcherson, AnnaSophia Robb, Zoëy Deschanel, Robert Patrick, Bailee Madison - Dir. Gabor Csupo

Animation master Gabor Csupo directs his first live-action film in this adaptation of the novel The Bridge to Terabithia, by Katherine Paterson, whose son David co-wrote the screenplay and serves as a producer. Jess (Josh Hutcherson) is misunderstood. Despite Jess' talents as an artist, the school bullies pick on him, his father (Robert Patrick) belittles his dreams, and his four sisters invade his space in the family's cramped house. Jess' bleak world changes when Leslie (Annasophia Robb) moves into the house next door. Bright, creative and outspoken, Leslie also finds herself an outsider in their school. Soon the two are thick as thieves, spending their after school hours exploring the woods beyond their backyards and on the others side of a creek, which Leslie deems the kingdom of Terabithia. Here, they create their own magical world, complete with a Dark Master and his minions, dragonfly soldiers, giant trolls and a treehouse fortress. In Terabithia, the two friends let their imaginations run wild and control their destiny, far away from school bullies and the pressures of adolescence.

Bullet for Joey

Edward G. Robinson, George Raft, Audrey Totter, George Dolenz, Peter Van Eyck, William Bryant, Steven Geray, Joseph Vitale, Sally Blane, Peter Hanson, Kaaren Verne, Henri Letondal - Dir. Lewis Allen
Nefarious Eric Hartman (Peter van Eyck), a spy working for the Communists, tricks Joe Victor (George Raft), a naive gangster, into working for him. Victor's assignment is to kidnap a nuclear physicist and „rub out“ a Federal Agent who has been sniffing after Hartman. It isn't long, however, before Victor realizes where Hartman's sympathies lie.

Carcel De Cananea

Pedro Armendariz, Agustin De Anda, Sonia Furio

An unjust prison sentence sets an innocent man and an upright police man against each other in the Mexican thriller LA CARCEL DE CANANEA (PURSUIT ACROSS THE DESERT). Jealous over his relationship with an attractive girl, a young man's best friend frames him for the murder of the girl's father, landing a guiltless man in jail. Seeking to clear his name and expose the true murderer, the young man escapes from his imprisonment, only to be pursued by the best deputy in the entire region, a reliable and unrelenting policeman who believes strongly in the law. But when this deputy inevitably catches up with the wrongly convicted man, can he be convinced of his innocence and be enlisted into the man's quest for justice? LA CARCEL DE CANANEA stars Mexican acting legends Pedro Armendariz and Agustin de Anda.

Closer - The Complete Seasons 1 & 2

G.W. Bailey, J.K. Simmons, Jon Tenney, Kyra Sedgwick, Robert Gossett, Anthony John Denison

Brenda Johnson (Kyra Sedgwick) arrives from Atlanta to lead the LAPD's Priority Homicide Division, the special division that deals with explosive high-profile criminal cases. Almost immediately, her mix of brassy toughness and Southern sass begins to rub the mostly male policemen the wrong way. They resent this eccentric, folksy, and occasionally neurotic woman running the show. But when it comes to her CIA-trained interrogation skills, they're forced to admit that she's a pro's pro, a psychological surgeon who gets inside the subjects' minds and draws out their darkest secrets and confessions. And that's why she's the closer. This release includes the first two seasons of the show.

Coming to America (Blu-ray)

Eddie Murphy, Arsenio Hall, James Earl Jones, John Amos, Madge Sinclair, Shari Headley - Dir. John Landis

This fantastical fairy tale stars Eddie Murphy as Prince Akeem, a pampered African prince who is yearning to be self-sufficient in his extremely opulent society, where his every whim is catered to. When Akeem turns 21 he defies the wishes of his kingdom and refuses to marry the beautiful bride who has been chosen for him. Instead, he sets out for America to find true love with his trusty sidekick, Semmi (Arsenio Hall). Determined to appear common, the pair arrive in Queens, New York, and quickly have to adapt to a world where they are no longer royalty and can't seem to find a modern woman who suits the prince's tastes—until he meets Lisa McDowell (Shari Headley), the lovely daughter of Cleo McDowell (John Amos), who owns McDowell's restaurant, a fast-food restaurant suspiciously like McDonald's. Akeem and Semmi get jobs at McDowell's and set about charming the unsuspecting Lisa. As the romance blossoms, Akeem has an increasingly difficult time hiding his true identity, especially when his royal parents (James Earl Jones and Madge Sinclair) and their entourage arrive in New York, eager to return their

Dante's Peak (HD DVD)

Elizabeth Hoffman, Charles Hallahan, Jamie Renee Smith, Grant Heslov, Jeremy Foley, Pierce Brosnan, Linda Hamilton - Dir. Roger Donaldson

A volcanologist forlorn over the loss of his wife in the Mt. Pinatubo eruption arrives at a small Pacific Northwest town to investigate the rumblings of the local dormant volcano. Though he instantly fears the worse, he must convince the skeptical townspeople and his suspicious superiors who believe he is overreacting in the aftermath of his own tragedy. The beautiful, widowed mayor of the picturesque town believes him, however, and soon they find themselves in a fight for their lives as „Dante's Peak“ blows its stack ten miles high, raining ash and fire over everything in its shadow. Dead Silence

Ryan Kwanten, Amber Valletta, Donnie Wahlberg, Bob Gunton, Laura Regan, Judith Roberts, Michael Eugene Fairman - Dir. James Wan

Old ladies, ventriloquist dummies, decrepit small-towns, and dolls are all exploited for their full creepy potential in DEAD SILENCE, a relatively innocent but thoroughly scary horror feature from the makers of SAW. After a heavily stylized black-and-white opening credit sequence that shows the story's central ghost, Mary Shaw, constructing her beloved ventriloquist dolls back in her heyday, the film transports viewers to the present. As newlyweds Jamie (Ryan Kwanten) and Lisa Ashen putter lovingly about their apartment far from their hometown of Raven's Fair, it is clear that something bad is about to happen. This dread is only further cemented when a knock on the door leads the lovebirds to discover an unmarked box containing a worn but eerily lifelike ventriloquist's dummy. Lisa is all too friendly towards the doll and gets what's coming to her when Jamie goes out to pick up some takeout, returning to find his wife's mangled body (minus her tongue) propped up like the dummy seemingly responsible for her death.

Desperately Seeking Susan / Something Wild

Madonna, Rosanna Arquette, Jeff Daniels,
Melanie Griffith, Ray Liotta - Dir. Jonathan
Demme, Susan Seidelman
DESPERATELY SEEKING SUSAN: Rosanna Arquette is Roberta Glass, a bored New Jersey yuppie housewife who finds escapism from her mundane life in the New York personal ad exploits of a flighty bohemian named Susan (Madonna). When Roberta travels to the city to witness an ad-inspired meeting between Susan and her lover Jimmy, she bumps her head, loses her memory, and for all intents and purposes, becomes Susan, thanks to a case of mistaken identity. As a result, she is pursued by crooks and other shady characters through the funky East Village of the early '80's. Quinn is the confused film protectionist who stumbles into the role of Roberta/Susan's protector. Madonna, not quite a superstar when this was filmed, uses this small role to show the sort of charisma she would soon shower upon the world in larger doses. Steven Wright, Giancarlo Esposito, Richard Hell, Ann Magnuson, John Lurie, and Arto Lindsay also turn up in small roles in this screwball '80's love letter to the downtown scene.

With his orange-colored bowl haircut and freckled cheeks, actor Rupert Grint (known by millions of pre-teens as Harry Potter's cinematic sidekick) is perfectly cast as Ben, an awkward teenage boy whose reticence almost trespasses into total muteness. After a lifetime of being reined in by his overbearing, deeply religious mother (the always spot-on Laura Linney), Ben enters into the social world via his job as assistant to one spitfire of a diva, the washed-up actress Eve Walton (the inimitable Julie Walters of EDUCATING RITA fame). Walton, unable to accept the disintegration of her once-lauded career, chews up the scenery with her theatrics, culled from both plays of her past (think Shakespeare soliloquizing on cue) and creations of her imagination (she constantly invents stories to tell Ben, forgetting them only hours later). Yet it is exactly this overdramatic flair for life that awakens something in the actress's repressed assistant, and, for the first time, Ben begins to assert himself and his ideas. Of course, this is much to the chagrin of his pious, controlling mother, who struggles in her s

For a Few Dollars More

Clint Eastwood, Lee Van Cleef, Gian Maria Volonte, Klaus Kinski, Rosemarie Dexter, Mario Brega, Aldo Sambrell, Luigi Pistilli - Dir. Sergio Leone
In the second film in Sergio Leone's Spaghetti Western trilogy (A FISTFUL OF DOLLARS being the first and THE GOOD, THE BAD AND THE UGLY the last), the Man with No Name (Clint Eastwood) teams up with gunslinger Colonel Mortimer (Lee Van Cleef) in order to extract reward money from Indio (Gian Maria Volonte), a mean and vicious bandit. There is little doubt as to No Name's financial intentions in the hunt, but Mortimer seems to be driven by something a bit deeper. A series of flashbacks (which would become a Leone signature device) provides the background for Colonel Mortimer's anger and desire for revenge. Morricone's score combined with Leone's trademark long and lingering shots bring the viewer ever closer to the human side of the Man with No Name. Although the film was not released in the United States until 1967, it was produced and released internationally in 1965.

F-Troop: The Complete Seasons 1 & 2

Bob Steele, Don Diamond, Frank DeKova, James Hampton, Ken Berry, Larry Storch, Melody Patterson
This 1960s sitcom/western followed the bold yet bumbling soldiers of F-Troop at Fort Courage in the days following the Civil War. Led by Captain Parmenter, a naive and wide-eyed soldier promoted to Captain due to an act of accidental heroism, the F-Troop cavalry does its incompetent best to survive in the lawless frontier. Making things easier, Parmenter's second-in-command, the crafty Sgt. O'Rourke, negotiates a deal with the local Hekawi Indians in which the cavalry and the Indians stage mock battles, but actually work together in a mutually profitable Indian souvenir business. The true threat to F-Troop comes from the warlike „Shug“ Indians who periodically raid the fort. Bringing a bit of sextop appeal to the show, sharp-shooting cowgirl Wrangler Jane strives to marry the innocent Captain Parmenter. A lighthearted send-up of the Western genre, F-TROOP, with its irreverent anti-authority attitude, showed its ties to the sixties counterculture, and acted as a precursor to the megahit M*A*S*H.

Furia

Stanislas Merhar, Marion Cotillard, Wadek Stanczak - Dir. Alexandre Aja
A futuristic fable comparable to George Orwell's 1984, FURIA offers a bleak peek into humankind's possible fate. The future government has obliterated any political opposition by shutting them down, as well as reigning in creative pursuits such as art and music. Aaron (Pierre Vanneck) is a local bartender who can only see in monochrome after an operation inflicted on him by government drones; he was assigned to this fate after being caught painting. His two sons, Theo (Stanislas Merhar) and Laurence (Wadek Stanczak) couldn't be more different from each other. Laurence works for the oppressive government forces, while Theo takes on his father's mantle and actively defies the rules by painting on any public surface he can find. Teaming up with fellow rebel, Elia (Marion Cotillard), Theo sets about decorating the city, and slowly falling in love with Elia. But with government minions everywhere they are soon in big trouble, leading to a tense finale to director Alexander Aja's all-consuming drama.

Good Boy!

Liam Aiken, Molly Shannon, Kevin Nealon - Dir. John Hoffman
Ten year-old dog walker Owen (Liam Aiken) takes a trip to the pound and picks out an adorable, pensive mutt he decides to call „Hubble.“ What Liam doesn't know is that Hubble has just arrived from Sirius (The Dog Star) for the purpose of checking up on the canine colonization that began thousands of years ago. A trip to Hubble's crashed spacecraft allows Liam to hear his new pal's voice (Matthew Broderick), along with those of the five dogs he routinely walks: robust Boxer Wilson (Donald Faison), jittery Italian Greyhound Nelly (Brittany Murphy), flatulent Burmese Mountain Dog Shep (Carl Reiner), and high-maintenance Poodle Barbara Ann (Delta Burke). Hubble is greatly troubled to discover that his kind have become pets on Earth, a fact that he is rather nervous to have to report to his leader, the Greater Dane (voiced by Vanessa Redgrave)—who will be arriving on Earth very shortly to check up on the colonization.

Hannibal

Anthony Hopkins, Julianne Moore, Ray Liotta, Giancarlo Giannini, Francesca Neri, Frankie R. Faison, Gary Oldman, Zeljko Ivanek - Dir. Ridley Scott
After a decade in abeyance, the courtly cannibal, Hannibal Lecter, returns to the screen, again played by Anthony Hopkins, under the direction of Ridley Scott. When F.B.I. Agent Clarice Starling (Julianne Moore) is blamed for a botched drug bust, her boss Paul Krendler (Ray Liotta) makes a media circus of her humiliation, which catches the attention of Lecter. Now a hardened veteran, she begins receiving letters from the twisted genius, who remains obsessed with her. Yet she's not the only one interested in drawing out the psychopath, now lecturing on the Renaissance in Florence. Italian detective Pazzi (Giancarlo Giannini) hopes to impress his young wife by nailing the reward for his capture, and wealthy pedophile Mason Verger (Gary Oldman) is eager to take revenge against the cannibal for leaving him with a hideously deformed face. But they're no match for Hannibal's coyly satanic ubiquity, which bewilders his quickly narcotized foes before he administers a punishment sufficiently grotesque to suit his sense of amusement. The odious Krendler, in particular, learns to use his gray matter for, perhaps, t

Hawaii Five-O - The Complete Second Season

Jack Lord, James MacArthur, Kam Fong, Zulu
One of TV's longest-running crime dramas (only LAW & ORDER would surpass its record-setting 12-year run), the 1970s television series HAWAII FIVE-O captivated audiences with its smart and stylish take on the standard policier formula. Filmed entirely on the Hawaiian archipelago, the action-packed series followed the crime-fighting adventures of an elite state-police squad anchored by quintessential tough guy Steve McGarrett (Jack Lord) and his detective team of Danny „Danno“ Williams (James MacArthur), Chin Ho Kelly (Kam Fong), and Kono Kalakaua (Zulu). Almost singlehandedly rewriting the book on police dramas, the series distinguished itself with intricate plotting, inventive cinematography, exotically beautiful locations, and, of course, an indelible theme song and timeless catchphrase („book 'em, Danno!“). This collection presents the iconic series' second season in its entirety.

Heavy Petting

How did America view sex in the 1950s? The filmmakers try to answer that question by looking at a wealth of archival material, as well as by interviewing a variety of actors, performance artists, and beat writers. While the stars comment on the images that shaped their first sexual encounters, the film cuts together clips from steamy teenage angst films, riotous sex-ed films and other material from the period.

Noche Avanza

Pedro Armendariz, Anita Blanch, Rebecca Iturbide, Eva Martino, José María Linares-Rivas
A true classic of Mexican cinema, LA NOCHE AVANZA is a tale of money and revenge amongst gamblers, criminals, and the women who surround them. Marcos, a jai-alai player who makes money from challenging other players to matches, has abandoned his pregnant lover Rebecca for wild girl Sara. This angers Rebecca's brother Armando, but he has problems of his own with crime boss Marcial, to whom he owes a sizable gambling debt. However, Marcial spies a way to get the money Armando owes him through blackmailing Marcos over Rebecca's pregnancy. Marcos agrees to toss his next jai-alai match, but at the last moment reneges on his promise and wins. This sets off a horrible chain reaction of events that will leave some characters dead and others destitute.

Misused inventions, interplanetary communication, and warped time peculiarities permeate the 1960s science fiction anthology program THE OUTER LIMITS. Created by Leslie Stevens, the program gained a rabid cult following and influenced a myriad of sci-fi that would follow, including a second OUTER LIMITS series in the 1990s. This collection from the original series comprises the entire first season which is full of political allegory as well as prophetic visions. Episodes include „The Man With The Power“ with Donald Pleasence as a college professor with deadly telekinetic powers; „The Human Factor“ about a brain switch; „Tourist Attraction“ with Ralph Meeker on a bizarre fishing trip; „Controlled Experiment“ in which Barry Morse plays an alien sent to Earth to investigate a murder; and the stunning pilot episode „The Galaxy Being.“

In this Revolutionary War epic from director Roland Emmerich (INDEPENDENCE DAY, GODZILLA) and writer Robert Rodat (SAVING PRIVATE RYAN), history unfolds as one man struggles to bury his demons and keep his family whole. Mel Gibson plays reluctant hero Benjamin Martin, a man who fought with both heroism and brutality in the French and Indian War, but who is now seeking to peacefully tend his own fields and ignore the later and greater conflict. Despite Martin's scrupulous parenting, however, his idealistic son Gabriel (Heath Ledger) leaves home to join the colonial army. Soon the war is literally on Martin's doorstep; a cruel British officer named Tavington (Jason Isaacs) kills one of his children and unwittingly galvanizes Martin, Gabriel, and a ragtag militia of locals into a fierce guerilla unit bent on revenge and liberty.

Platoon

Johnny Depp, Keith David, Forest Whitaker,
John C. McGinley, Richard Edson - Dir.
Oliver Stone
In PLATOON, Oliver Stone draws on his experience as an infantryman in Vietnam to convey the brutality of guerrilla warfare: the heat of the jungle, the brushes with such wildlife as snakes and leeches, and, most powerfully, the presence of the unseen enemy. Charlie Sheen stars as Chris, a raw recruit, or „new meat,“ who serves as the film's narrator. At first he wilts under the rigorous conditions of jungle life, freezes up in a fire fight, and wonders whether he'll be able to survive. But he gradually adapts and, as time goes by, begins to see that the platoon is divided into two groups. One consists of lifers, juicers, and subintelligent whites, the other of blacks and heads. Sgt. Barnes, a combat-loving burnout (Tom Berenger), is the informal leader of the lifers, and Sgt. Elias, a free spirit (Willem Dafoe), leads the latter group. When the platoon takes some gruesome losses, an enraged Barnes kills some Vietnamese and orders the burning of their village, outraging the temporarily absent Elias. As the conflict between these two reaches its tragic climax, Chris must decide what he really values. Wide

An insecure young boy named Scotty moves into a new town with his recently remarried mother and stepdad. Feeling ostracized as the new kid on the block, Scotty tries to make friends with the other boys. But they spurn him when they realize that Scotty knows next to nothing about baseball — not even who the „Great Bambino“ (Babe Ruth) is. Dejected and lonely, Scotty begins to feel he will always be an outsider. Then Benny „The Jet“ Rodriguez, the best ballplayer in school, befriends him and things change quickly: the boys are more willing to accept Scotty, despite their reservations, and they have fun playing ball together all summer.

THE SANTA CLAUSE 3: THE ESCAPE CLAUSE, the third installment of the popular holiday series THE SANTA CLAUSE picks up with Everyman-turned-Santa-Claus Scott Calvin (Tim Allen) just days before Christmas. Not only is toy production behind schedule, but another special delivery is on its way—Scott's wife, Carol/Mrs. Claus (Elizabeth Mitchell) is pregnant. To add to the pressure, Carol's parents are coming for a visit, prompting an emergency make-over for Santa's Village (into a nondescript Canadian town) to protect Scott's true identity. With all this on his mind, Santa is more than happy to let his fellow seasonal icon Jack Frost (Martin Short) step in and help out. But Frost has an ulterior motive: angry over his secondary-figure status and longing to have his own holiday, he tricks Santa into giving up his reign, and Christmas falls into the hands of Frost. Scott, no longer Santa Claus, must decide between resuming his previous life or saving Christmas from the coldhearted Frost.

Beloved television cult director Joss Whedon (BUFFY THE VAMPIRE SLAYER, ANGEL) makes a spectacular first foray onto the big screen with SERENITY, the cinematic adaptation of his wildly popular but short-lived sci-fi series, FIREFLY. A mix of space western, comedy, and drama, SERENITY follows captain Malcolm „Mal“ Reynolds (Nathan Fillion) and his ragtag crew as they trade their way around the edges of civilized society. Of particular interest are two passengers they take on, Simon and River Tam (Sean Maher, Summer Glau), a brother and his telepathic sister on the run from the corrupt governing Alliance. As notorious former members of the anti-Alliance opposition, Mal and his crew make it difficult for Simon and River to stay hidden. Everything goes completely awry when a government assassin is sent to retrieve River. As Mal is forced to choose between his close-knit crew and the brother and sister newcomers, it becomes apparent that River harbors both a dangerous secret and astounding fighting powers, and Mal decides that discovering the truth about what she knows might just be worth his time.

High-strung, statuesque Nomi Mallone (Elizabeth Berkley) is determined to be a dancer in Las Vegas, whatever it takes—but she starts out as a stripper. Through her seamstress roommate (Gina Ravera), Nomi catches the attention of the voracious bisexual Cristal (Gina Gershon), star of an extravagant pagan sex show called „Goddess“ which plays nightly at the swanky Stardust Casino. Through Cristal's influence, Nomi gets a chance to audition for „Goddess“ and is soon involved in all sorts of sordid backstage goings-on, including bitchy dueling with Cristal over Stardust head honcho Zack (Kyle McLachlan). Maligned by many critics upon its original release, SHOWGIRLS has since become a true camp classic, revived for midnight showings and beloved for its decadence, high nudity yield, and outrageously catty dialogue (courtesy of screenwriter Joe Eszterhas). Its director is Paul Verhoeven (ROBOCOP, TOTAL RECALL), so one can safely assume SHOWGIRLS' over-the-top hostility and sexuality is meant to be a satire of American culture. Sure Thing / Valley Girl

Nicolas Cage, Deborah Foreman, Frederic Forrest, John Cusack, Daphne Zuniga, Anthony Edwards - Dir. Rob Reiner, Martha Coolidge

THE SURE THING: When free-spirited but juvenile Walter „Gib“ Gibson (John Cusack) meets studious, uptight Alison Bradbury (Daphne Zuniga) at an unnamed Ivy League college, sparks fly; unfortunately, they are mostly of the disastrous variety as all of Gib's attempts at courtship fall painfully apart. Inevitably, the duo is tossed together when they both answer the same ad for a ride to California.

While Alison is traveling to reunite with her tidy law school boyfriend, Gib is on the road to meet a beautiful girl his best friend promises him is „a sure thing.“ Before too long, Gib and Alison's bickering inflames the driver, who promptly deposits the two with their suitcases on the side of a lonely highway thousands of miles from their destination. As the misadventures pile up, the initially contentious pair begin to take a liking to one another—but do these two dare fall in love?

SWAMP ZOMBIES is a low-budget gorefest about a mad scientist (Shannon Solo) who inadvertently creates an army of the undead through surreptitious experiments at his hospital workplace. When the good doctor is forced to dump his test subjects at a local swamp, the zombies begin wreaking havoc on an unsuspecting populace of college students. This tongue-in-cheek schlockfest also features porn star Jasmin St. Clair and pro wrestlers Brian Heffron and Dan Severn.

This film festival favorite follows a young man who leaves his wife and career for the stark beauty of the California desert. After someone steals almost all of his clothes, the man is left to wander in only his underwear and a mustache. David Fenster's beautifully photographed debut is an ode to loneliness as it centers on the man as he begins a new life as the owner of a junkyard in the middle of nowhere.

Rob McKittrick

Upon his arrival at Shenaniganz, a suburban chain restaurant bedecked with decorative knock-knocks, new wait staff trainee Mitch (John Francis Daley) is placed under the wing of Monty (Ryan Reynolds), a veteran who first informs his young charge that all male employees engage in a game in which the object is to get others to unwittingly look at your genitals. Unwittingly, Mitch has stumbled into a world where servers—such as angry Naomi (Alana Ubach), and coquettish Serena (Anna Faris), along with a rowdy kitchen staff—led by randy Raddimus (Luis Guzman)—are at constant war with their demanding, low-tipping customers. Meanwhile, waiter Dean (Justin Long) must decide whether to take a promotion to manager or set out for brighter horizons beyond birthday songs and whimsically-named appetizers.

The War (HD DVD)

Elijah Wood, Kevin Costner, Mare

Winningham, Lexi Randall - Dir. Jon Avnet

In the summer of 1970, Stephen (Kevin Costner) returns to his family in Mississippi after a stint in the Vietnam War, his emotional and psychological scars leave him depressed and alienated, while struggling to overcome the nightmare of post traumatic stress disorder. His wife Lois (Mare Winningham) becomes the one forced to struggle to keep food on the table, working grueling double shifts as a waitress and forced to rely on welfare. And his children, Stu (Elijah Wood) and Lidia (Lexi Randall) have it no easier: they're caught in a battle with a group of neighborhood bullies over a tree house that they built out of junk to be a safe haven for their friends, while trying to escape the pressures of school and life in a small Southern town. Ironically, these small-town hostilities are what finally help Stephen come to terms with the larger war he fought in Vietnam. And as he tries to communicate his personal philosophy about violence to his son Stu, the two create a bond stronger than any they have ever had before. By summer's end, both Stu and Lidia gain a new respect for their father's beliefs of peace

We Are...Marshall (Blu-ray)

David Strathairn, Matthew Fox, Huntley Ritter, Anthony Mackie, Kate Mara, Ian McShane, Robert Patrick, Kimberly Williams, Matthew McConaughey - Dir. Joseph McGinty

In November 1970, a plane carrying almost the entire Marshall University football team, its staff and fans crashed, killing 75 people in all and devastating the small town of Huntington, West Virginia. WE ARE MARSHALL, directed by McG (THE O.C., FASTLANE) tells the tragic true story of how the university and the citizens of Huntington rebuilt the football program and dealt with the loss of so many of their own. The university's president, Donald Dedmon, earnestly portrayed by David Strathairn (GOOD NIGHT, AND GOOD LUCK), hires the only willing coach to take on such a daunting task, Jack Lengyl (Matthew McConaughey). With the help of the lone Marshall football coach Red Dawson (Matthew Fox) and the three remaining players who weren't on the plane, Coach Lengyl sets out to restructure Marshall's team, and spirit. But for some in the community it's still too soon, including Paul Griffen (Ian McShane) who lost his football-star son. They fear that moving on so quickly is disrespectful to those who died and to the loved ones who still mourn. The film emphasizes this issue, illustrating the strug

Woman in the Window

Edward G. Robinson, Joan Bennett, Dan Duryea, Raymond Massey, Robert Blake, Dorothy Peterson, Frank Melton, Don Brodie - Dir. Fritz Lang
In this tense melodrama, a meek college professor gets mixed up in murder and blackmail. After his wife and kids leave for vacation in Maine, Professor Richard Wanley remains behind on his own. En route to his club, he's riveted by a painting he sees in a store window. It's a portrait of a beautiful woman, and he's shocked when he realizes that the picture's model—Alice Reed—is standing right next to him. Wanley innocently goes to Reed's apartment to look at other pieces of art when an angry man breaks in. After accusing Alice of cheating on him, the stranger attempts to harm the professor. But Wanley defends himself by stabbing his attacker, who, it turns out, is a famous financial promoter. The professor and the model then cover up the crime by dumping the body in the woods. The police eventually do find out about the death, and they start an investigation; meanwhile, the professor tries desperately to figure out a way out of this mess. Then it turns out that someone else knows what happens...and intends to blackmail Wanley and Reed.

Emperors of the Ice / March of the Penguins

MARCH OF THE PENGUINS: Coming from a French director, Luc Jacquet, the miraculous MARCH OF THE PENGUINS would have to be a love story. And so it is.

The film explores the mating rituals of the emperor penguin, one of the most resilient animals on earth. Each summer, after a nourishing period of deep-sea feeding, the penguins pop up onto the ice and begin their procession across the frozen tundra of Antarctica. Walking doggedly in single file, they are a sight to behold. Hundreds converge from every direction, moving instinctively toward their mating ground. Once there, they mingle and chatter until they find the perfect mate—a monogamous match that will last a year, through the brutal winter and into the spring. During that time, the mother will give birth to an egg and then leave for the ocean to feed again. The father will stay to protect the egg through the freezing blizzards and pure darkness of winter, which would be deadly to practically any other species. Finally, with spring, the egg hatches and the baby penguins are born. Mothers return from the sea to reunite with their families and feed the

Into Great Silence

INTO GREAT SILENCE fits neatly into the sub-category of films that need to be experienced rather than just watched. Over 162 minutes director Philip Groening films a group of monks who dwell in the Carthusian monastery of the Grande Chartreuse in the French Alps. The monks have taken a vow of silence, and live life at such a gentile pace that it took them 13 years to respond to Groening's request to make a film about them. The subjects of Groening's film fill their days with slow and highly repetitive routines, so the director shoots at a suitably slow pace, highlighting simple tasks such as praying, gardening, cooking, and doing laundry. Groening lived with the monks for four months and worked under strict conditions dictated to him by the order; no voiceover, music, or interviews were to be included in the film, and Groening was to be the sole crew member on the shoot. There are a couple of moments when Groening breaks with his modus operandi. He interviews an elderly blind monk, the Gregorian Chants practiced by the order occasionally feature, and the monks stage a snowball fight on one of their week
